

Introduction, Implementation and Launch of New Detailing System

by Chief Personnel Specialist(SW) Donnell D. Wright

Commander, Navy Reserve Forces Command (CNRFC) is elevating Reserve junior officer career opportunity assignments to the next level with the introduction of the new interactive detailing system ... Reserve Junior Officer Detailing System (RJODS).

As the Active/Reserve Integration (ARI) movement continues to advance, it becomes even more important that we improve our process of getting the "right Sailor to the right place at the right time, every time." RJODS will not only get the right junior officer to the right place, it will ensure all pertinent components of the Reserve and Active Duty chain of command have visibility and input.

RJODS will be implemented and mandated October 1, and it is designed to aid Navy Operational Support Centers, Reserve Component Commanders (RCCs) and Supported Commands in the proper placement of their personnel. RJODS will also assist junior officers in their career development by affording them visibility into career opportunities and the entire billet base of available assignments.

The Navy Reserve already has a system for the placement of senior officers (those ranking O5 and O6) to Command and Non-Command billet assignments and junior officers into leadership (Command/OIC) positions called the National Command and Senior Officer Non-Command Billet Screening and Assignment Board, also known as the APPLY Board.

RJODS is a component of APPLY. All SELRES officers can access the APPLY program by registering on the APPLY Web page located on the Navy Reserve Web site.

CNRFC previously mandated all SELRES officers register in APPLY and continues to track all registering officers by RCC. This access affords every officer the opportunity to review their Officer Service Record for accuracy and completeness, allows them to update personal information as needed and familiarize themselves with the billet assignment processes.

Applicants will have the ability to conduct billet searches, view billet details and input up to three billet requests. Additionally, applicants will have the ability to input comments and amplifying remarks with their applications.

The Supported Command/Program Manager will have the ability to view all applicants, input comments into the system concerning billets under their cognizance, input comments into the system concerning applicants and may prioritize applicants that are competing for the same billet assignment.

The CNRFC Detailer will be able to view billet requirements, Supported Command comments, applicant comments and details. The Detailer, after viewing all of the applicable data, will select and assign the officer to a valid billet assignment. Orders will be generated via IDT Orderwriter and all junior officers who applied for the billet that were not selected will receive an e-mail notifying them the billet is no longer available for assignment.

In the next two months, additional guidance and information will be available on the Navy Reserve Web site as well as published in upcoming NAVADMINs, RJODS bulletins and future TNR articles.
